4145-3688-200: $35,307

The NACCHO Disability Grant is one-time funding to hire a part time staff member to help address the needs of New Orleanians that have disabilities during the COVID-19 pandemic. They will work with the point of dispensing planning team to ensure that testing and vaccine sites are ADA compliant and that we can properly address the needs of people with disabilities at these sites. This person will also assist us with community outreach and there is funding for supplies and equipment to better meet the needs of our entire community.

The Cities Readiness Initiative is CDC funding that funnels through state health departments to the 70 largest cities in the country to prepare for pandemics and bio terrorism event . This funding was created after the 2001 anthrax attacks and helps us prepare for points of dispensing. This frame work, infrastructure and training is what has allowed New Orleans to be one of the fastest cities to establish COVID-19 testing and vaccine distribution because we already had locations identified, necessary supplies, and staff trained to operate sites similar to this. This funding will be used to expand the existing plan to include the new sites that were identified over the last year and continue purchasing supplies necessary for COVID-19 vaccine distribution.

This grant is to help improve outcomes for moms and babies by addressing the persistent inequities that contribute to health disparities among women of color. The goal of the grant is to align members, providers, and communities to support mothers holistically to improve outcomes for mothers and babies. The City of New Orleans will utilize these grant funds to provide wrap-around services to moms and infants.
